ethiopian a350 business class: Ethiopian Airlines Bruce Mtigwe, 2023 Africa's largest airline succeeded where others failed by pursuing a five-pillar business strategy and developing alliances and partnerships. Ethiopian Airlines, however, has staked its future on a single market--Africa--even as the contest for Africa's airspace from foreign airlines has intensified. The case traces Ethiopian Airlines' strategy, including leveraging its nation's location as a gateway into Asia and the Middle East. Nevertheless, the company faces over-playing this advantage given heavy investment commitments by the Ethiopian government at Bole International Airport hub in Addis Ababa, on its behalf. The situation also underscores the dangers of adopting state capitalism business models.

ethiopian a350 business class: Efficiency and Growth of Ethiopian Air Transport Industry Tsegay Kaleab Atsbaha, 2022-09-19 This book evaluates the efficiency and growth of the Ethiopian air transport sector through careful analysis. It provides essential research input for air transport industry practitioners in planning and resource management as well as for academics of advanced efficiency analysis who need to work and study in airports and the airline industry. The book analyzes the theoretical and practical implications of air transport growth determinants, airports' cost and production efficiency, including labor use efficiency by taking their respective determinant factors. The findings and policy implications of each research work provide important inputs for government policymakers and air transport planners to consider the causality of economic growth versus airlines growth and other determinants, to take lessons on the proper resource allocation in the application of airport cost and production efficiency, human capital, investment cost, price of capital, and labor inputs during the development and expansion of airports and airlines. This book is the first of its kind on the Ethiopian air transport industry and serves as a much-needed reference for the African air transport industry as well as other developing countries in terms of airport costs, production, labor use efficiency and airline growth perspectives.

The airline has had a successful strategic focus with a long-term goal of dominating the African aviation market. However, it faces several threats: aviation giants taking over African skies; the lack of an open-skies framework on the continent; and an aviation sector under state control and high levels of regulation. Moving forward, Ethiopian Airlines must determine whether its focus on the African continent is a sound long-term strategy.
