Introduction to Ethel Merman

Ethel Merman was born on January 16, 1908, in Astoria, Queens, New York. Her early life laid the foundation for a career that would see her become one of the most celebrated musical theatre performers of the 20th century. Merman's journey into show business began with her love for music and performance, often participating in school plays and local productions. After studying at the University of Washington, she made her Broadway debut in 1929 in the musical "George Gershwin's Girl Crazy," which set the stage for her extraordinary career.

Merman's robust contralto voice and commanding stage presence quickly garnered attention, leading to a series of successful performances that would define her legacy. She became known for her ability to convey deep emotion while captivating audiences with her remarkable vocal range. Throughout her career, Merman would work with some of the most prominent composers and lyricists of her time, including Cole Porter and Irving Berlin.

The Rise of Ethel Merman

Ethel Merman's rise to fame was nothing short of meteoric. After her debut, she became a staple of the Broadway stage, earning critical acclaim and a loyal fan base. Her breakthrough role came in 1930 with the musical "Girl Crazy," where she performed the hit song "I Got Rhythm." This performance showcased her ability to deliver powerful vocals, and she quickly became known as the "First Lady of Musical Theatre."

Notable Performances

Throughout her career, Merman starred in numerous hit musicals that solidified her status as a Broadway icon. Some of her most notable performances include:

- Annie Get Your Gun (1946) Playing the role of Annie Oakley, Merman delivered a legendary performance that included the anthem "There's No Business Like Show Business."
- Anything Goes (1934) In this Cole Porter classic, she showcased her comedic timing and vocal prowess with the song "I Get a Kick Out of You."
- Gypsy (1959) Merman portrayed Mama Rose in this musical about the rise of her daughter, which has since become a classic in American theatre.

These performances not only highlighted Merman's incredible talent but also contributed significantly to the evolution of musical theatre in the United States.

"There's No Business Like Show Business"

Significance of the Song

The song captures the spirit of the theatre and the unique experiences that come with a career in show business. Its catchy melody and powerful lyrics resonate with audiences, celebrating the joys and challenges of life on stage. Merman's rendition is characterized by her dynamic vocal delivery, which conveys both enthusiasm and nostalgia for the world of entertainment.

The phrase "There's no business like show business" has transcended its original context, becoming a popular adage used to describe the allure and excitement of the entertainment industry. Merman's performance solidified its place in American culture, making it a staple in musical repertoire and a source of inspiration for aspiring performers.

Impact on Musical Theatre

Ethel Merman's influence on musical theatre is profound and far-reaching. She played a pivotal role in shaping the genre, pushing the boundaries of vocal performance and stage presence. Her ability to connect with audiences set a new standard for musical theatre performers.

Revolutionizing Performance Style

Merman's style was characterized by her powerful belt voice, which was distinctively different from the more subdued techniques of earlier performers. This new approach allowed for greater emotional expression and energy on stage. Merman's performances often embodied the spirit of the characters she portrayed, making her a favorite among theatre-goers.

Cultural Impact

Ethel Merman's impact extended beyond the stage. She became a cultural icon, representing the golden age of Broadway. Her performances influenced countless artists and paved the way for future generations of performers. The success of her musicals and the songs she popularized helped to establish the importance of musical theatre in American culture.

Legacy and Influence

Ethel Merman passed away on February 15, 1984, but her legacy lives on. She is remembered as one of the quintessential figures of American musical theatre, with her contributions still celebrated today. Merman's recordings, performances, and the songs she made famous continue to inspire performers and delight audiences.

Honors and Recognition

Throughout her career, Merman received numerous accolades, including:

- Tony Awards Merman won multiple Tony Awards, highlighting her exceptional talent and contributions to theatre.
- Hollywood Walk of Fame She received a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame, commemorating her impact on the entertainment industry.
- Posthumous Honors Merman has been honored in various ways, including tribute performances and documentaries that showcase her life and work.

Her influence remains evident in contemporary musical theatre, where her performance techniques and song choices continue to resonate with performers and audiences alike.

Conclusion

Ethel Merman's career and her rendition of "There's No Business Like Show Business" encapsulate the essence of an era in American musical theatre. With her powerful voice, dynamic stage presence, and unforgettable performances, Merman has left an indelible mark on the world of entertainment. Her legacy continues to inspire new generations of artists, ensuring that there truly is no business like show business.

no business like show business ethel merman: The Golden Age Musicals of Darryl F. Zanuck Bernard F. Dick, 2022-03-30 Beginning with The Jazz Singer (1927) and 42nd Street (1933), legendary Hollywood film producer Darryl F. Zanuck (1902-1979) revolutionized the movie musical, cementing its place in American popular culture. Zanuck, who got his start writing stories and scripts in the silent film era, worked his way to becoming a top production executive at Warner Bros. in the later 1920s and early 1930s. Leaving that studio in 1933, he and industry executive Joseph Schenck formed Twentieth Century Pictures, an independent Hollywood motion picture production company. In 1935, Zanuck merged his Twentieth Century Pictures with the ailing Fox Film Corporation, resulting in the combined Twentieth Century-Fox, which instantly became a new major Hollywood film entity. The Golden Age Musicals of Darryl F. Zanuck: The Gentleman Preferred Blondes is the first book devoted to the musicals that Zanuck produced at these three studios. The volume spotlights how he placed his personal imprint on the genre and how—especially at Twentieth Century-Fox—he nurtured and showcased several blonde female stars who headlined the studio's musicals—including Shirley Temple, Alice Faye, Betty Grable, Vivian Blaine, June Haver, Marilyn Monroe, and Sheree North. Building upon Bernard F. Dick's previous work in That Was Entertainment: The Golden Age of the MGM Musical, this volume illustrates the richness of the American movie musical, tracing how these song-and-dance films fit within the career of Darryl F. Zanuck and within the timeline of Hollywood history.

no business like show business ethel merman: Blood Brothers Deanne Stillman, 2017-10-24 Winner of the 2018 Ohioana Book Award for Nonfiction The little-known but uniquely American story of the unlikely friendship of two famous figures of the American West—Buffalo Bill Cody and Sitting Bull—told through the prism of their collaboration in Cody's Wild West show in 1885. "Splendid... Blood Brothers eloquently explores the clash of cultures on the Great Plains that initially united the two legends and how this shared experience contributed to the creation of their ironic political alliance." —Bobby Bridger, Austin Chronicle It was in Brooklyn, New York, in 1883 that William F. Cody-known across the land as Buffalo Bill-conceived of his Wild West show, an "equestrian extravaganza" featuring cowboys and Indians. It was a great success, and for four months in 1885 the Lakota chief Sitting Bull appeared in the show. Blood Brothers tells the story of these two iconic figures through their brief but important collaboration, in "a compelling narrative that reads like a novel" (Orange County Register). "Thoroughly researched, Deanne Stillman's account of this period in American history is elucidating as well as entertaining" (Booklist), complete with little-told details about the two men whose alliance was eased by none other than Annie Oakley. When Sitting Bull joined the Wild West, the event spawned one of the earliest advertising slogans: "Foes in '76, Friends in '85." Cody paid his performers well, and he treated the Indians no differently from white performers. During this time, the Native American rights movement began to flourish. But with their way of life in tatters, the Lakota and others availed themselves of the chance to perform in the Wild West show. When Cody died in 1917, a large contingent of Native Americans attended his public funeral. An iconic friendship tale like no other, Blood Brothers is a timeless story of people from different cultures who crossed barriers to engage each other as human beings. Here, Stillman provides "an account of the tragic murder of Sitting Bull that's as good as any in the literature...Thoughtful and thoroughly well-told—just the right treatment for a subject about which many books have been written before, few so successfully" (Kirkus Reviews, starred review).

no business like show business ethel merman: Marilyn Monroe Michelle Vogel, 2014-05-08 This book is essentially a filmography interlaced with a complex biographical account of Marilyn Monroe's life and loves throughout her career. A lengthy introduction explains her traumatic early life and mysterious, unexpected, much talked about death. Behind the scenes information, cast and crew lists, box office grosses and photographs are given for each film. There is a Foreword by Academy Award-winning actor (West Side Story) George Chakiris, who worked as a chorus dancer in two of Monroe's biggest productions, Gentlemen Prefer Blondes (1953) and There's No Business Like Show Business (1954). This is a definitive summation of the Hollywood icon's career.

no business like show business ethel merman: The Secret Life of Marilyn Monroe J. Randy Taraborrelli, 2009-08-25 From New York Times bestselling author J. Randy Taraborrelli comes the definitive biography of the most enduring icon in popular American culture. When Marilyn Monroe became famous in the 1950s, the world was told that her mother was either dead or simply not a part of her life. However, that was not true. In fact, her mentally ill mother was very much present in Marilyn's world and the complex family dynamic that unfolded behind the scenes is a story that has never before been told...until now. In this groundbreaking book, Taraborrelli draws complex and sympathetic portraits of the women so influential in the actress' life, including her mother, her foster mother, and her legal guardian. He also reveals, for the first time, the shocking scope of Marilyn's own mental illness, the identity of Marilyn's father and the half-brother she never knew, and new information about her relationship with the Kennedy's-Bobby, Jack, and Pat Kennedy Lawford. Explosive, revelatory, and surprisingly moving, this is the final word on the life of one of the most fascinating and elusive icons of the 20th Century.

no business like show business ethel merman: Some Enchanted Evenings David Kaufman, 2024-05-01 Mary Martin was one of the greatest stars of her day. Growing up in Texas, she was married early to Benjamin Hagman and gave birth to her first child, Larry Hagman. She was divorced even more guickly. Martin left little Larry with her parents and took off for Hollywood. She didn't make a dent in the movie industry and was lured to New York where she found herself auditioning for Cole Porter and his new show Leave It to Me!. After she sang the bawdy My Heart Belongs to Daddy, she ended up on the cover of Life magazine. Six years later, she became the Toast of Broadway when she starred in South Pacific. After that, she flew as Peter Pan, yodeled in The Sound of Music, took Hello, Dolly! on the road and shared a four-poster with Robert Preston in I Do! I Do!. Her personal life was just as interesting: In NYC, she met and married Richard Halliday, a closeted upper-class homosexual who adored her, Broadway and interior decorating (though probably not in that order). They were a powerful twosome. There were rumors about Martin, too, being in a lesbian relationship with both Janet Gaynor and Jean Arthur. Peopled with legends like Ethel Merman, Ezio Pinza, Noel Coward and a starry cast of thousands, David Kaufman's Some Enchanted Evenings is the delectable story of the one and only Mary Martin, a woman who described herself as a chicken farmer from Texas only to become Peter Pan and capture America's heart.
