Overview of the AICE History Syllabus

The AICE history syllabus is structured to provide students with a balanced and rigorous study of history from multiple perspectives. It caters to learners aiming for advanced placement and university preparation. The syllabus is designed by Cambridge Assessment International Education and offers flexibility in topic selection while maintaining academic depth.

Students may choose from various historical periods and regions, allowing them to tailor their studies according to interest and relevance. The syllabus encourages an analytical approach, requiring students to engage with a variety of historical sources and interpretations.

Course Objectives

The primary objectives of the AICE history syllabus include fostering a critical understanding of historical events, enhancing research skills, and promoting the ability to construct coherent historical arguments. The course also aims to develop an appreciation of the complexity of historical causes and consequences.

Eligibility and Target Audience

This syllabus is intended for secondary school students typically aged 16 to 19 who seek a challenging curriculum in history. It suits those interested in pursuing history or related disciplines at higher education levels or careers that require strong analytical and writing skills.

Core Themes and Topics Covered

The AICE history syllabus encompasses a variety of themes and topics, reflecting significant historical periods and global developments. The curriculum is divided into thematic and chronological studies to provide comprehensive coverage.

Key Historical Periods

Students study selected periods that often include:

- Medieval and Early Modern Europe
- The Renaissance and the Reformation
- The Age of Revolutions (American, French, Industrial)
- The World Wars and 20th Century Conflicts
- The Cold War and Contemporary History

Major Themes

Several recurring themes are integral to the syllabus, including:

- Political Power and Governance
- Economic Change and Development
- Social Structures and Movements
- International Relations and Diplomacy
- Conflict and Peace Processes

Assessment Structure and Examination Format

The AICE history syllabus assessment is designed to evaluate students' knowledge, understanding, and analytical skills through a combination of written examinations and coursework. The assessment emphasizes essay writing, source evaluation, and knowledge application.

Examination Components

The examination is typically divided into multiple papers, which may include:

- Paper 1: Source-based questions requiring analysis of historical documents.
- Paper 2: Essay questions focusing on specific historical themes or periods.
- Paper 3: Depth study examination on a particular case study or topic.

Marking Criteria

Examiners assess students based on their ability to:

- Demonstrate factual knowledge and understanding of historical contexts.
- Analyze and interpret primary and secondary sources critically.
- Construct well-organized, coherent arguments supported by evidence.
- Use relevant historical terminology accurately.

Skills Developed Through the AICE History Syllabus

Engagement with the AICE history syllabus equips students with a diverse set of skills essential for academic and professional success. These skills extend beyond history, benefiting students in various disciplines.

Critical Thinking and Analysis

Students learn to evaluate different sources, recognize bias, and assess the validity of arguments. This analytical approach enhances their ability to think critically about complex information.

Research and Source Evaluation

The syllabus emphasizes the use of primary and secondary sources, teaching students how to gather, assess, and synthesize information from diverse materials.

Communication and Argumentation

Clear, structured writing is a focus, with students developing proficiency in articulating historical arguments effectively and persuasively.

Study Tips and Resources for Success

To excel in the AICE history syllabus, students should adopt strategic study habits and utilize available resources effectively. Consistent review and practice are key components of success.

Recommended Study Practices

- Create detailed notes and timelines for each historical period studied.
- Practice source analysis regularly to improve critical evaluation skills.
- Write practice essays to enhance argument construction and time management.
- Engage in group discussions to explore different interpretations and perspectives.

Utilizing Resources

Students should make use of textbooks, past examination papers, and academic journals to deepen their understanding. Additionally, attending revision sessions and seeking feedback from instructors can provide valuable guidance.

Special Committee of the New England History of Teachers' Association, 2015-06-27 Excerpt from A History Syllabus for Secondary Schools: Outlining the Four Years' Course in History, Recommended by the Committee of Seven of the American Historical Association This syllabus is the work of a committee appointed by the New England History Teachers' Association to prepare... a report on practical methods of teaching history, with such topical outlines, references, and bibliographies as shall help teachers to put into operation such suggestions for reform in history teaching as may be applicable to the conditions in the secondary schools. After the outlines had been tested by several teachers with their classes, the report of the committee was presented to the Association in April, 1901. The general and special introductions with ample illustrations of the outlines were then printed and sent to all members as a preliminary report. After this had been tried in the schools and discussed by the Association at its meeting in October, 1901, the report was approved and ordered published. The original committee which prepared the preliminary report was composed of six members: Herbert D. Foster, of Dartmouth College, Chairman, Bemadotte Perrin of Yale University, Elizabeth K. Kendall of Wellesley College, Edwin A. Start, then of Tufts College, Ernest F. Henderson, Walter H. Cushing, then teacher of history in the Medford High School and now Principal of the South Framingham High School.
