The AZ-104 certification, also known as Microsoft Azure Administrator Associate, validates an individual's expertise in managing Azure cloud services. This certification focuses on core administrative tasks such as implementing, monitoring, and maintaining Azure solutions including major services related to compute, storage, network, and security. Understanding the scope and objectives of the AZ-104 exam is crucial for selecting the most appropriate study material. Candidates must be familiar with Azure subscriptions, resource groups, virtual machines, virtual networks, and identity management.

Exam Objectives and Domains

The AZ-104 exam covers several key domains that reflect the responsibilities of an Azure administrator. These domains include managing Azure identities and governance, implementing and managing storage, deploying and managing Azure compute resources, configuring and managing virtual networking, and monitoring and backing up Azure resources. Each domain carries a specific weight in the exam, and thorough knowledge of these areas is vital for exam success.

Prerequisites and Target Audience

This certification is designed for professionals who have experience with Azure workloads, security, governance, and cloud infrastructure. Typically, candidates should have at least six months of hands-on experience administering Azure environments. Familiarity with core Azure services and an understanding of networking, virtualization, and cloud security principles are recommended prerequisites before engaging with az 104 study material.

Official Microsoft Learning Resources

Microsoft offers a wealth of official resources that form the foundation of any solid az 104 study material repository.
