Pair your noodles with this steaming mystery, and you have the perfect chilly night combination!"—PopSugar At the Ho-Lee Noodle House, murder is on the menu. When Lana Lee's best friend, Megan Riley, asks her to help host a speed dating contest at Ho-Lee Noodle House, she doesn't see the harm in lending a hand. The night goes better than anticipated, and both Lana and Megan are beyond thrilled with the results. But before they can break out the champagne, Rina Su, fellow Asia Village shop owner and speed dating participant, calls to inform Lana that the date she's just matched with has been murdered. Under suspicion of foul play, Rina enlists Lana's help in finding out what really happened that night. Without hesitation, Lana begins to dig into the man in question. To her dismay, she quickly finds that Rina's date has a rather unsavory past. There's a long line of slighted women, angry neighbors, and perturbed co-workers—all of whom seem to have a motive. As Lana continues to spiral down the treacherous path of scorned lovers and mistreated acquaintances, she can't help but dwell on how quickly an innocent evening filled with hope and positivity could turn so sour. When the media gets in on the case, Lana must rush to find the killer before more dates turn deadly.

gal gadot hot: Hot Planet, Cool Media Stephen Harper, 2023-04-23 From the Arab Spring and London riots through the era of Brexit and Trump, the Covid-19 pandemic and war in Europe, this volume collects eleven years of lively, informative and entertaining essays and polemics, focusing on media treatment of major world events, political entanglements and culture-war squabbles. Taking aim at the distortions and omissions of news reports and cultural narratives in the Western world, Stephen Harper highlights the dislocation between humanity's existential crisis and the failure of the corporate media to register its underlying causes – or even to entertain any real discussion of its solution. Instead, he argues, the media blithely serve the narrow interests of a global elite that is subjecting the planet to a reign of fire in the form of endless wars and ecological destruction. Harper reviews contemporary journalistic, cinematic and televisual coverage, engaging with broad cultural topics such as 'cancel culture', the incel phenomenon and Covid conspiracy theories, as well as key events like the debate between Jordan Peterson and Slavoj Žižek. For all its eclecticism, Hot Planet, Cool Media has an ideological cohesiveness, rejecting popular left and right political positions and advocating the cause of socialism or communism in the Marxian sense of a classless, leaderless, moneyless society.

gal gadot hot: Learning from Birmingham Julie Buckner Armstrong, 2023-05-22 'As Birmingham goes, so goes the nation,' Fred Shuttlesworth observed when he invited Martin Luther King Jr. to the city for the transformative protests of 1963. From the height of the civil rights movement through its long aftermath, the images of police dogs and fire hoses turned against protestors, and the four girls murdered when Ku Klux Klan members bombed the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church, made the city an uncomfortable racial mirror for the nation. But like many white people who came of age in the civil rights movement's wake, Julie Buckner Armstrong knew little about her hometown's history growing up with her single, working class mother in 1960s and 70s. It was only after moving away and discovering writers like Toni Morrison and Alice Walker that she began to realize that her hometown and her family were part of a larger story of racial injustice and struggle. In recent years, however, Birmingham has rebranded itself as a vibrant, diverse destination for civil rights heritage tourism. Former sites of violence have been transformed into a large moving National Park Service memorial complex that includes a museum, public art, churches, and multiple walking tours. But beyond the tourist map, one can see in Birmingham--just like Anytown, USA--a new Jim Crow reemerging in the place where the old one supposedly died. Returning home decades later to care for her aging mother, Shuttlesworth's admonition rang in her mind. By then an accomplished scholar and civil rights educator, Armstrong found herself pondering the lessons Birmingham has for America in the twenty-first century, where a 2014 Teaching Tolerance report characterized a common understanding of the civil rights movement in two names and four words: Martin Luther King Jr, Rosa Parks, and 'I have a dream.' Seeking to better understand her hometown's complicated history, its connection to other stories of oppression and resistance, and her own place in relation to it, Armstrong embarked on a journey to unravel the standard Birmingham narrative to see what she would find instead. Beginning at the center, with her family's arrival in 1947 in a neighborhood near the color line, within earshot of what would become known as Dynamite Hill, Armstrong works her way out in time and across the map. Pulling at strings and weaving in the personal stories of her white working-class family, classmates, and other local characters not traditionally associated with Birmingham's civil rights history, she expands the cast and forges connections between the stories that have been told about Birmingham as well as those that haven't. From a funny cousin whose closeted community was also targeted by Bull Connor's police force to an aunt who served on the jury that finally convicted Robert Chambliss of murdering Denise McNair, Armstrong combines intimate personal stories, archival research, and cultural geography to reframe the lessons of Birmingham through the intersections of race, class, gender, faith, education, culture, place, and mobility. The result is more than a pageant of Birmingham and its people; it's also a portrait of Birmingham rendered on the ground over time--as seen in old plantations, in segregated neighborhoods, across contested boundary lines, over mountains, along increasingly polluted waterways, under the gaze of Vulcan, beneath airport runways, on the highways cutting through and running out of town. In her search for truth and beauty in the veins of Birmingham, Armstrong draws on the powers of place and storytelling to dig into the cracks, complicating the easy narrative of Black triumph and overcoming. Among other discoveries found in the mirror, Armstrong finds a white America that, for too long, has failed to recognize itself in the horrific stories and symbols from Birmingham's past or accept the continuing inequalities from which it unfairly benefits. A literary scholar, Armstrong observes that many of the best writings on civil rights and race relations describe racism as a wound, a poison, or a sickness--without offering easy prescriptions. Citing James Baldwin, Armstrong knows stories have the power to touch the human heart but warns that resistance to injustice only begins there. Once engaged, it is up to each of us to look again and consider what our stories really reveal about the world and ourselves. In Learning From Birmingham, Armstrong reminds us that the stories of civil rights, structural oppression, privilege (whether intentional or unconscious), abuse, and inequity are difficult and complicated, but that their telling, especially from multiple stakeholder perspectives, is absolutely necessary-- <https://goo.gl/sgu0uq> Gal Gadot: A Wonder of a Woman Wonder Woman is one of the strongest female characters in the superhero universe. To play that part, you need someone who is courageous, beautiful, and caring. Luckily, Gal Gadot matches that description perfectly. With her long brown hair and athletic build, she certainly looks the part. Born in Israel, Gadot achieved early success thanks to her looks, winning the Miss Israel competition when she was 18. This victory eventually led to a modeling career, but first she would have to complete her required two-year military service. She took on the challenge with grace, working as an instructor in the Israeli defense force. "You give two or three years, and it's not about you," she said in a 2016 interview. "You learn discipline and respect." After beginning her acting career in an Israeli TV show, Gadot made her feature film debut in 2009's Fast & Furious. She would later star in several entries of the popular franchise. But it was her performance as Wonder Woman in Batman v. Superman: Dawn of Justice and the heroine's eponymous film in 2017 that Gadot is best known for. This would turn out to be the role of a lifetime for the Israeli actress.

Wonder Woman broke box office records and turned Gadot into a household name. She became one of the highest-paid actresses globally and landed a spot on Time's list of the world's 100 most influential people. Gadot used her fame to work with Pencils of Promise, an organization promoting equal access to education for children. As a mother of two, it should come as no surprise that she is using her fame to raise funds to build schools in underprivileged areas around the world. Recently, Gadot reprised the role that made her famous in the latest Wonder Woman movie, Wonder Woman 1984. However, in addition to her superhero duties, she has started working as a producer with her own production company. Among other projects, the company is adapting the life stories of several strong women throughout history, such as Irena Sendler, a Polish social worker who saved dozens of Jewish children from the Holocaust. Gadot will perform in these projects to continue as an example for women and girls around the world. Gal Gadot didn't start out trying to become a star, but it's a good thing that she did. With her strength and kind heart, this wonder of a woman is just the kind of role model we need today.
