Academic Calendar Overview

The Stonehill semester dates are structured to provide a balanced academic year, combining fall and spring semesters, with optional summer sessions. The academic calendar is designed to facilitate effective teaching and learning, ensuring that students have sufficient time for coursework, examinations, and breaks. Stonehill College typically follows a semester system, dividing the academic year into two primary sessions: the fall semester and the spring semester. Each semester comprises a set number of instructional weeks, followed by exam periods. The calendar also includes scheduled holidays and breaks that align with national observances and institutional policies. Understanding the overall framework of the academic calendar aids students in planning their academic and personal commitments throughout the year.

Fall Semester Dates

The fall semester at Stonehill College usually begins in late August or early September and extends through mid-December. This period marks the start of the academic year, welcoming new and returning students. The semester encompasses several key dates, including the first day of classes, midterm exams, withdrawal deadlines, and the final examination period. During the fall semester, students engage in a full schedule of courses across various disciplines, participating in both in-person and hybrid learning formats as applicable. The fall semester concludes with final exams, followed by a winter break.

Start and End of Fall Semester

The official start date of the fall semester generally falls in the last week of August or the first week of September. Classes commence promptly on this date, marking the beginning of the academic session. The semester typically ends in mid-December, with final exams scheduled during the last week of classes or immediately thereafter. Students are advised to confirm exact dates annually, as the college may adjust the calendar slightly depending on holidays and other institutional considerations.

Key Fall Semester Dates

- First Day of Classes: Late August/Early September
- Midterm Exam Period: Typically mid-October
- Last Day to Withdraw Without Academic Penalty: Usually mid-November
- Final Exam Week: Mid-December
- Fall Semester Ends: Mid-December

Spring Semester Dates

The spring semester at Stonehill College generally spans from early January to early May. This semester follows the winter break and provides students with another opportunity to complete their academic requirements for the year. The spring semester's schedule includes important milestones such as the start of classes, spring recess, midterm exams, withdrawal deadlines, and final exams. The academic calendar is structured to optimize student learning and accommodate breaks that allow for rest and rejuvenation during the semester.

Start and End of Spring Semester

The spring semester typically begins in the first or second week of January, shortly after the New Year holiday. This ensures a smooth transition from the winter break back to academic activities. The semester usually concludes in early May, with final exams scheduled during the last week of classes or immediately following. Students should verify the exact dates each year through official college communications to account for any calendar adjustments.

Key Spring Semester Dates

- First Day of Classes: Early January
- Spring Recess: Usually a week in mid-March
- Midterm Exam Period: Typically late February to early March
- Last Day to Withdraw Without Academic Penalty: Usually mid-April
- Final Exam Week: Late April to Early May
- Spring Semester Ends: Early May

Summer Sessions and Special Terms

In addition to the traditional fall and spring semesters, Stonehill College offers summer sessions and special academic terms. These sessions provide flexibility for students who wish to accelerate their studies, catch up on credits, or engage in specialized courses. Summer sessions generally consist of shorter, intensive terms that run from late May through August. These sessions are ideal for students seeking to advance their academic goals during the summer months.

Summer Session Dates

Stonehill's summer sessions are divided into multiple terms, often including early summer, mid-summer, and late summer sessions. Each session typically lasts between four to eight weeks, with specific start and end dates published annually. Students interested in enrolling in summer courses should consult the academic calendar for precise dates and registration deadlines. Summer sessions may include a combination of in-person, online, and hybrid classes to accommodate diverse learning preferences.

Special Academic Terms

Occasionally, Stonehill College offers special academic terms such as winter intersession courses or study abroad programs that fall outside the standard semester schedule. These terms have unique dates and requirements, which are communicated through the college's academic affairs office. Students participating in special terms should ensure they are fully aware of the relevant stonehill semester dates and deadlines to plan accordingly.

Important Academic Deadlines

Stonehill College's academic calendar includes several critical deadlines that students must observe to maintain good academic standing and progress toward degree completion. These deadlines cover course registration, add/drop periods, withdrawal without academic penalty, and grade submission dates. Adhering to these deadlines is essential for avoiding penalties and ensuring smooth academic progression.

Registration and Add/Drop Deadlines

Registration for each semester typically opens several months in advance, allowing students to plan their schedules ahead of time. The add/drop period usually spans the first one to two weeks of the semester, during which students can modify their course selections without academic or financial penalties. After this period, course changes may be restricted or subject to approval.

Withdrawal and Grade Deadlines

The last day to withdraw from courses without receiving a failing grade or academic penalty is an important stonehill semester date. This deadline generally falls near the midpoint of each semester. Additionally, faculty members submit final grades shortly after the conclusion of exams, completing the academic cycle. Awareness of these deadlines helps students manage their academic responsibilities effectively.

Holidays and Breaks

Throughout the academic year, Stonehill College observes various holidays and breaks that provide students and staff with opportunities for rest and cultural observance. These breaks are incorporated into the academic calendar to align with national holidays and institutional traditions. Recognizing these dates is important for planning academic activities and personal engagements.

Major Holidays

- Labor Day (Early September)
- Thanksgiving Break (Late November)
- Winter Break (Mid-December to Early January)
- Martin Luther King Jr. Day (January)
- Spring Recess (Mid-March)
- Memorial Day (Late May, often affecting summer sessions)

Purpose and Impact of Breaks

These scheduled breaks allow students to recharge and prepare for upcoming academic challenges. They also offer time for family gatherings, travel, and participation in community events. The Stonehill semester dates are carefully planned to balance instructional time with adequate rest periods, supporting student well-being and academic performance.
