The exam location is determined by the course instructor and is communicated to students ahead of finals week. It is essential to confirm the exam venue to avoid any last-minute confusion.

Traditional In-Person Exams

Most courses follow the traditional in-person exam format. These exams are proctored in designated rooms with strict adherence to academic integrity policies. Students must arrive on time and bring necessary materials such as identification, writing instruments, and calculators when permitted.

Online and Hybrid Exam Formats

In some cases, particularly for courses with hybrid or online components, finals may be administered electronically. Instructors provide specific instructions regarding submission procedures and technical requirements.

Conflict Resolution Procedures

Students who face overlapping exams or other conflicts must notify their instructors and the academic affairs office as soon as possible. Acceptable reasons for rescheduling include multiple exams at the same time, documented emergencies, or unavoidable personal circumstances. Proper documentation may be required to support rescheduling requests.

Rescheduling Requests

Rescheduling requests must be submitted in writing and approved by the academic affairs office. The college strives to accommodate legitimate requests by offering alternative exam times, typically during makeup exam days or earlier in finals week. However, rescheduling is not guaranteed and is subject to instructor approval and logistical feasibility.

Consequences of Missing Exams

Failure to appear for a scheduled final exam without prior approval can result in academic penalties, including a failing grade for the exam or course. Students are strongly encouraged to communicate proactively to avoid stonehill fall 2023 finals schedule: Body Politics in Contemporary Irish Women's Fiction Ellen Scheible, 2024-12-12 Exploring twentieth- and twenty-first century texts that wrestle with the Irish domestic interior as a sexualized and commodified space, this book provides readings of the power and authority of the feminized body in Ireland. Scheible dissects the ways that 'the woman-as-symbol' remains consistent in Irish literary representations of national experience in Irish fiction and shows how this problematizes the role of women in Ireland by underscoring the oppression of sexuality and gender that characterized Irish culture during the twentieth century. Examining works by Elizabeth Bowen, Pamela Hinkson, Emma Donoghue, Tana French, Sally Rooney and James Joyce, this book demonstrates that the definition of Irish nationhood in our contemporary experience of capitalism and biopolitics is dependent on the intertwining and paradoxical tropes of a traditional, yet equally sexual, feminine identity which has been quelled by violence and reproduction.
